WILDLIFE-MINDED GARDENING

As spring blossoms and the last thoughts of winter fade away, flowers become big and showy and colors start to pop. What we do not often think about is how our gardens can be entryways to invasive plants. Invasive plants are not native to the local area and cause harm to either human health, the economy, or the environment.

Most of the "bigshot" invasive plants that we deal with today were brought over by settlers for their gardens. Many of these plants can still be bought at nurseries today.

Whether for their beautiful blooms or their uses for food and medicine, these plants can harm native wildlife. Despite these uses, it is important to be mindful of how your gardening can impact wildlife. But are you planting these in your garden? Below are some commonly planted invasive plants to avoid and some native ones to plant instead!

Instead of forget-me-nots, plant lupine!
Instead of wisteria, plant Joe-Pye weed!
Instead of English ivy, plant partridge berry!
Instead of burning bush, plant red chokeberry!
Instead of morning glory, plant Michigan monkey-flower!
Instead of bush honeysuckle, plant summersweet!
Instead of black locust, plant quaking aspen!
Instead of buckthorn, plant American hazelnut!

For the Bees

While you are out buying flowers for your garden, something to look out for would be a chemical used in plant treatment called neonicotinoids. Made from tobacco, neonicotinoids prolong blooms as flowers are shipped to stores. However, this chemical can be extremely harmful for bees and can cause colony collapse. Flowers that have been treated with this chemical should have that noted on its packaging. If you have bought these flowers, you should cut off the flower heads that have already bloomed. Flower heads that have not yet bloomed will not affect the bees, as they pick up the chemical during the pollination process.

Happy gardening from the Van Buren Conservation District!

New Club Offered at PPMS: Students Learn Sign Language

A new club has formed at Paw Paw Middle School. The American Sign Language (ASL) Club has been meeting on Mondays after school in the media center! Students have been learning and practicing the alphabet, spelling their own names, practicing signing the days of the week and learning a few family signs.

The students are getting comfortable using their hands to communicate. The instructor Nadia VanNortwick set up a timer to challenge students after they practiced their names and family signs. They have had fun trying to beat their original times!

Michigan-based ASL Tutor Nadia VanNortwick is hard of hearing herself, and she is the daughter of deaf parents so she has grown up in the deaf community. By teaching students how to communicate with those who are deaf or hard of hearing, she is preparing them to practice the PPPS Core Value of Community, valuing our differences and collaborating for the common good. Additionally, research shows that learning sign language improves spatial reasoning, enhances the ability to interpret body language, increases reaction times and peripheral vision and there are long-term cognitive benefits as well!

Farm Day Cultivates a Sense of Community

The Van Buren County Farm Bureau treated the Early Elementary to an amazing Farm Day right on the school's property! All of the classes rotated through five education stations, in which students learned about different kinds of livestock, big equipment, blueberries, beekeeping and took part in an extra special make-and-take-station. Paw Paw Early Elementary students and staff are thankful for the area farmers who volunteered their time and knowledge.

The district's Core Value of Community was the Early Elementary's focus this month, and Farm Day provided a great opportunity for students to connect with the community by meeting area farmers. A special thanks to all of the community partners who participated in making this day so special for the students: Van Buren County Farm Bureau; Ty, Brittney, and Tammy Hood from Hood's Dairy Farm; Gene Sahr from Sahr Farm; Cheryl Sullins from Jubilee Blueberry Farms; The Blueberry Store; Samantha Reidenbach from Wild Reid Ranch; Josh and Emma Engel, Anya Butler; The Wiatrolik Family Farm; Ethan and Tylor Kubiszak and an extra special thank you to Kristin Kubiszak for planning and organizing the entire event. This was a wonderful learning experience for all students at the Early Elementary!

2Paw Robotics Team Models Integrity in Everything They Do

Paw Paw High School is proud to sponsor a team for FIRST Robotics competition. 2PawRobotics is a student-led team of eighth through 12th-grade students who take on the task of designing, building, programming and operating a robot to perform the functions needed to participate in competition. The tasks needed are different each year, and the scenario of the competition changes.

The FIRST organization (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) promotes several ideals that align with the PPPS Core Values, including integrity. FIRST Robotics Competition promotes integrity by emphasizing respect, kindness, collaboration, personal responsibility and safety, all of which help to create a culture of fairness, honesty and integrity among participants.

2PawRobotics operates a student-centered plan that helps create an environment where learning is always the focus; everything they do is tied back to learning. The adult mentors make sure that this happens on a consistent basis by instilling the mantra "Everyone is heard, Everyone feels valued and Everything is important" as the three pillars of the team. This ensures that they do not miss out on any great ideas, and do not silence the brilliance that hides in students.

Advisor Ben Tomlinson said, "We hear this over and over from adults. They can't believe how much hard work students are willing and able to do. Students grow faster when adults set the conditions for learning and then get out of the way."

In everything they do, 2PawRobotics emphasizes the following pillars of FIRST Robotics:

Gracious Professionalism: emphasizing respect, kindness, and cooperation between teams. This helps to create a culture of integrity that values fair play and collaboration over winning at all costs.

Core Values: including concepts such as "we do the right thing, even when no one is watching" and "we believe that what we do matters." These values help to instill a sense of personal responsibility and integrity in all participants.

Code of Conduct: the FIRST code of conduct that outlines the expected behavior of all participants, including students, mentors, and volunteers. This code emphasizes honesty, respect, and fair play, and helps to ensure that all members of the FRC community are held to a high standard of integrity.

Safety: strict rules and regulations designed to keep participants safe during competition. By prioritizing safety, FIRST promotes a culture of integrity that values the well-being of all members of the community. 2PawRobotics won two Safety All Star awards, one at each of their competitions.

Girl Scout Project by PPHS Senior - Book Vending Machines Encourage Reading

Congratulations to PPHS Senior Molly McNitt for completing the hours required to submit for her Girl Scouts Gold Award! The Gold Award is earned by creating a sustainable service project and delegating 80 plus hours to the project.

With the goals of promoting the growth of home libraries and creating a fun experience for kids, Molly chose to purchase book vending machines for Paw Paw Early Elementary and Paw Paw Later Elementary.

You may be asking, what are book vending machines, and how do they work? They look like an ordinary vending machine, but instead of getting a snack, you get a book! When students receive tokens from school staff for exemplary behavior, academic success or other positive actions, they receive tokens. Then, the tokens can be directly inserted into the machines in exchange for a book of their choice.

This not only creates positive reinforcement for students' actions, but also encourages them to read more. What's more, by using books as a reward, it contributes to a culture of lifelong learning and continuous academic growth.

To make ends meet, more families are required to spend more time at work and less time at home. Because Paw Paw Early and Later Elementary are classified as low-income, high-risk schools with 48% percent of students receiving free or reduced lunch, many students who struggle with reading may not have the privilege of having literary materials at home, or they may not have a parent at home who can offer them academic support.

According to the 2020-21 Michigan Student Test of Educational Progress (M-STEP), 52.7% of Paw Paw's Later Elementary students were proficient in English Language Arts, whereas 50.5% were considered proficient in reading on the 2021-2022 M-STEP Assessment. There is clearly a need for more ways to motivate students to read.

These are just a few of the benefits of these machines. Students could also keep the books they receive, which would give them pride of ownership as they build their own personal libraries.

According to Jeremy Davison, Paw Paw Later Elementary Principal, "Through increased accessibility to books, the book vending machines will enhance the learning environment. The Later Elementary has been working hard to change the culture of the elementary school when it comes to reading. This project further supports that mission."

In conclusion, Mr. Davison said, "It will be exciting to see the positive ripple effect of this project! It will not only impact the 925 students currently enrolled between both elementary schools, but will also benefit thousands of students in future classes as well."

Adult Ed Offers Flexibility & Innovative Options

Paw Paw Adult Education is excited to offer Innovative options for GED prep and diploma completion. Students, regardless of the individual situations, are always put first with their success being the primary focus. The classroom and program structure is flexible enough to accommodate even the busiest schedules. The adult education classroom offers day and evening hours in a relaxed environment. The classroom is a walk-in lab, so students can come in to work independently or get one-on-one help from a certified teacher when it fits their schedule. For students who prefer to work mainly from home, Paw Paw Adult Education offers that option too! Students can even set up a Google Meet session with one of the teachers for additional support. GED students who are ready to test have three options; students can test in a private room within the classroom, from the comfort of their own home or at an in-person testing center.

Beyond the classroom, Paw Paw Adult Education works with Michigan Works!, staffing agencies and other community partners to assist students with meeting basic needs, finding employment and furthering their education through trade school or college. Paw Paw Adult Education is committed to finding creative and innovative ways to meet the needs of all students. Teacher Liz Bungart and Director Beckah Chartier collaborate with other area agencies and programs to discuss and share data that informs better decisions for future growth.

Carolyn Stone Bair

DECEMBER 30, 1934 - JUNE 11, 2023

Passed away peacefully, surrounded by her family, on June 11, 2023, in South Haven, Michigan. Carolyn was born on December 30, 1934 in Allegan, MI, the daughter of Joseph and Thelma (Edwards) Watts. She attended Allegan High School, where she met the love of her life, Richard (Dick) Stone, whom she married on April 26, 1951. For the first four years, they lived in Otsego, Michigan. In 1955 she and Dick moved to Bloomingdale, where they bought a large dairy farm, D-Caro Acres. When she was not busy raising their 6 children, she milked, on average, 125 cows twice daily. She loved raising her baby calves, lambs, and other farm animals. Carolyn loved spending time at the cabin in Luther on the Manistee River. From just relaxing to family reunions, she cherished time spent up north. She also loved reading the Bible and writing poems and short stories. She published two books, The Smallest Raindrop and Fireman Dave Goes to School. She and Dick were married for 45 years until Dick's death in 1994. After Dick passed away, she married a longtime friend, Ron Bair, whom she was married to for 15 years until his death. She also worked as a real estate agent for a few years. She loved attending South Haven Community Free Will Baptist, where she could see her church, her friends, and her Pastor, Gary Guthrie. She is survived by Susan (Jim) Bard of South Haven, Dick Stone of Bloomingdale, Daniel (Debra) Stone of Bloomingdale, Sheri (Dave) Eichholzer of Joliet, IL, Scott Stone of South Haven; her son-in-law, Steve Smedley of Bloomingdale, Connie (Brian) Hoffman of South Haven and, Bart Bair of California; 19 Grandchildren, 42 great-grandchildren with one on the way; and two great, great-grandchildren; also surviving is her sister-in-law Earline DePauw along with two nephews and a niece. She was preceded in death by her daughter Shelley Smedley and a daughter-in-law Linda Stone; her siblings, William (Bill) Watts and Wilma Brabon; and a brother-in-law Robert (Bob) DePauw. The service was held Thursday, June 15, at the Bloomingdale Chapel, D.L. Miller Funeral Home with Pastor Gary Guthrie officiating. Interment followed at Mountain Home Cemetery in Otsego, Michigan, where she was buried by her long-time love, Richard (Dick) Stone. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations to Caring Circle Hospice or her church, South Haven Community Free Will Baptist.
